Immunoglobulins - also commonly known as antibodies - they are proteins produced by 'B' cells in our immune organs and tissues, which are also transported to the blood stream. They are essential to our body's immune system immediate defence systems, and can recognise and neutralise bacteria and viruses at our respiratory and gut barriers.

Proline-rich polypeptides support anti-microbial defences at our mucosal surfaces including the upper respiratory system as well as the oral cavity.

Sialyl oligosaccharides in particular provide additional support anti- viral and bacterial defences since they can also interact directly with pathogen attachment to our gut, oral cavity and respiratory systems.

- PRPs provide direct anti-microbial activity
- Supports the body against infections that cause winter ills and chills
- Supports normal immune response to allergens as well
- Assists in immunity for everyday wellness

Alpha Lipid™ Colostem™ supports two main aspects of healthy stem cell function – the release of viable stem cells from the bone marrow stem cell. It does this by stimulating the less well-known gut-stem cell axis. In addition, under immune mediated stress, this product contains actives that are renowned for their ability to counteract the collateral damage called oxidative stress that is guaranteed to occur under any exposure to immune system stressors. Alpha Lipid™ Colostem™ thereby supports an ideal healthy internal environment for the stem cells to thrive in. This will assist with natural cellular repair, healing and regeneration, healthy ageing, health, energy, and vitality.

- Reduce inflammation
- Reduce oxidative damage to cells
- Supports healthy, responsive immunity
- Support healthy stem cell function
- Helps to maintain a healthy gastro-intestinal environment
